

Vision

African Things aims to change the negative image associated with African manufacture and be a symbol for high quality products while empowering Africans.

Mission

We aim to be the leading exporter of African Lifestyle products. Through our value chain we will enable wealth creation for small retail business and aim to have our products in every household in Africa.

About us

African Things was founded by Tosin Lawson in March 2013. She graduated from the University of Nottingham with a B.Eng (Hons) in Product Design and Manufacture. she also has an MBA at Lagos Business school. She was inspired by her experience abroad to present contemporary African to the generally ill-informed about Africa, in the way she knew best – fashion.

Tosin Lawson

She established African Things as a means to show the world African's heritage and culture which is rich in tradition, colour and excitement. The company did this by designing and producing a wide range of African inspired products to both wholesale and retail customers.

Beauty from within....

In 2015, she was selected as one of 1000 entrepreneurs across Africa, to take part in Tony Elumelu's Entrepreneurship program; A program that aims to develop and provide seed capital for up-coming businesses in Africa.

The ultimate goal for African Things, is to have its designs in every household in Africa. The company currently stocks at over 30 retail outlets in Nigeria and is looking to expand in the United Kingdom and United states.
